Wrapper for Today's Star With Pictorial

Advance Sale Today's Star Hits 1,000 Extra Copies

The Southwest Arkansas reading public has ordered more than 1,000 extra copies of today's Hope Star with Golden West Pictorial — the greatest advance sale in the history of Star Publishing Company.

Today's Star consists of a standard 8-page newspaper on standard newsprint, which we printed, plus the 16-tabloid-page Golden West Pictorial printed on 45-pound Carfax Book Paper by the huge offset press of Hurley Printing Company, Camden, Ark.

The Golden West Pictorial is a souvenir venture which The Star originally projected as an entirely in-plant production. Our press handled the book paper all right — but it would not print a solid bank of picture pages satisfactorily. So, regardless of cost, we took the Golden West Pictorial to Hurley Printing Company and had it printed by offset.

For your information, no flatbed press in a city our size will print such a picture production. Nor will Texarkana's huge 24-page rotary press print it. All our inking facilities are insufficient to meet the vast requirements of solid banks of picture pages.

Our experiments for disastrous weeks in our own plant were finally confirmed by The Goss Company, Chicago, world's largest press manufacturers. It developed that a New England publisher tried the same thing in a mountain Pictorial of his own region — and failed.

Therefore we threw away 37 engravings that we had made for the Golden West Pictorial and took the edition to Wallace Hurley's fine offset press at Camden. In the offset press operation individual engravings aren't used. Proofs of the type pages are photographed, original pictures are pasted in — and then the page negatives are printed down on aluminum plates for the big press.

On our Western tour last August we paid as high as 50 cents for printed souvenirs that were no better — if as good — as the Golden West Pictorial which you bought with today's edition for a total price of 5 cents. After today the Golden West Pictorial alone sells for 10 cents — a souvenir which is the finest ever distributed by an Arkansas newspaper.

U. S. to Send Jet Planes to Pakistan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is planning to begin delivering B-57 jet bombers to Pakistan late this year, the Pentagon says.

The Defense Department said Thursday night an undisclosed number of the light bombers are being furnished under terms of a military agreement between the United States and Pakistan.

Sees Little Hope for 4-day Work Week

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — United Steelworkers Union President David J. McDonald today said there is little hope of his union gaining a four-day week or a six-hour day in forthcoming contract negotiations with the basic steel industry.

He still spoke enthusiastically about reducing work schedules by giving workers a three-month paid vacation every five years.

Speaking at a Dist. 16 USW conference, McDonald said "the steel industry is in no mind to negotiate a four-day week or a six-hour day this year."

"I do not intend," McDonald said, "to lead our people into any fight they cannot win and we cannot win that."

Steelworkers now work an eight-hour day and a 40-hour week.

McDonald in his formal speech made no reference to the three-month vacation plan. At a news conference later, he referred to it as "my baby."

Contract talks with the basic steel industry begin May 18 in New York City. The present three-year contract expires at midnight June 30.

$8,000 Loss in Bruner Ivory Fire

Fire of undetermined origin damaged a blank handle shed near the Bruner Ivory Handle Co. garage about 6 p. m. yesterday and first estimates placed the loss at $8,000.

Firemen were able to confine the blaze to the one building, the loss being to the building itself and stored handle blanks. There was no machinery in the structure.

The plant, Hope's largest, was in full production today.

Governor Signs Highway Bond, Blood Bills

By JACK MARTIN

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus today left handling the question of when he will call a special election for a vote on a proposed 21-million-dollar highway construction bond issue.

A bill for the election was one of two controversial measures which Faubus signed into law yesterday. The other was a bill to require that blood for transfusions be labeled with the race of the donor.

Faubus said he would call the bond election "whenever the Highway Commission tells me the money is needed and when any other impediments which may arise are cleared away."

Apparently it is entirely within the discretion of the governor, when or whether, to call an election.

The Highway Commission has not been enthusiastic about more bonds. It unsuccessfully sought tax increases in the Legislature to finance a "pay-as-you-go" construction program.

Commission Chairman Lawrence Blackwell of Pine Bluff said today he didn't think there "should be any great rush" about a bond issue. He said he felt certain that bond brokers' attorneys would require a court ruling on legality of the bond act.

Faubus said he had been assured by the commission that secondary roads would get "proper consideration" in expenditure of any bond money.

Sen. M. A. West of Paragould, sponsor of the bond measure, was author of a companion measure which would have given priority to any "new" money to secondary roads.

The second bill failed and West, in an apparent pique, took the highway bill home with him when the Legislature ended and did not return it until early this week.

Blackwell said the Highway Commission had not met but that Faubus had conferred with him individually and he assumed "with other members."

He said secondary roads always were given the proper consideration.

Under the Arkansas constitution, any bond issues must be approved by popular vote.

Minstrel Is Well Received at McCaskill

A crowd of more than 150 persons turned out last night at McCaskill or a preview showing of the 14th annual Hope Kiwanis Club Minstrel. The performance was sponsored by the Methodist church with all proceeds going to the church for a building improvement expansion.

The showing was well received by the McCaskill community citizens who entertained the Kiwanis minstrel cast with cold drinks, cake and coffee.

Indications are that this year's show will be the best in the long series of minstrel shows. The specialty acts were outstanding with the end men adding much fun and frolic.

The annual showing in Hope will be the nights of April 9 and 10, Thursday and Friday nights of next week. Ticket are now on sale and may be purchased from grade or high school students.

All revenue derived from the show will go to the Hope Youth program. Over the past 11 years and about $17,000.00 has gone into this fund.

Fallout Study Is Ordered by Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has ordered a study of how the government can best evaluate the effect of radioactive fallout on health.

The White House announced today that the study already is well under way. The Atomic Energy Commission, the Department of Welfare and the Budget Bureau are carrying it out.

Announcement of the study is being made, a White House statement said, in view of the considerable public attention which has been focused recently on the radiological health studies of the federal government.

Must Be Set for Combat, Army Told

FT. BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — Gen. Bruce C. Clarke warned here today that future Army units "must be combat-ready for the enemy's best, or they are not ready at all."

Speaking to ranking Army and civilian industrial leaders attending a symposium on mobility and communications, Gen. Clarke said the "built-in mobility" of Soviet armies has presented a stiff challenge to the training and equipping of American ground forces.

Gen. Clarke, commander of the U.S. Army Continental Army Command at Ft. Monmouth, Va., said to live on the same battlefield with the Soviet forces, "we must have at least the same degree of mobility. To be able to win the ground battle, we must have a superior mobility."

"Never again will the pace of battle permit the gradual seasoning of units under fire," he said.

White Oak Lake Soon to Be Completed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas' outdoor recreational empire will soon get a big addition: a 3,000-acre lake in Ouachita and Nevada counties.

The lake will be formed by levee construction on White Oak Creek, the state Game and Fish Commission announced.

Construction on the project is expected to start in June. A slight delay arose because a change in specifications on one of the levees had to be made, a commission spokesman said.

Arkansas scored a first among states on the project, getting the first land turned over by the federal government as surplus under a land utilization program.

Fishing as well as duck and other forms of hunting will be allowed in the new facility.

A dam will be built with two uncontrolled spillways—without gates to control the flow of water.

One of the levees will split the lake and a road will run along the top of it, allowing landlocked anglers easy access to deep waters where the big fish lie.

Changes in specifications for this levee were necessary to meet federal requirements so federal aid could be obtained for the road, the spokesman said. Engineers of the commission are now working on the changes.

The new lake will be between Camden and Prescott, on State Highway 24.

Efforts are also being made to build a lake on Distress Creek in Poinsett County. Persons interested in the project now are trying to get options on the land needed, the commission spokesman said.

The commission also has undertaken studies in regard to various factors involved in the proposed project.

Tornado Victim Dies in Texas

HILLSBORO, Tex. (AP) — Lollie Watson, 78, injured Tuesday night when a tornado slashed through Bynum, south of here, died Thursday night.

Mrs. Watson suffered internal and severe leg injuries in the north-central Texas storm.

Her death brought the toll in Texas from the twisters at Bynum and nearby Vaughan to seven.

Mrs. Garnet Cain of Bynum remained in a local hospital in critical condition.

Kentucky's Morton Dines With Alcorn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wendell Alcorn, retiring Republican national chairman and Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, the man most talked about to succeed him, breakfasted together today and swapped views.

"I heard Alcorn told a reporter that he was going to join the Democrats and arrange to get together with him for an informal talk."

"We obviously talked about his availability and the newspaper reports on it. While discussing the subject, we naturally talked about his views on it. The senator repeated what he had said in Louisville that he was available if the committee wanted him."

Morton said he would not serve beyond the presidential election next year.

Morton said he placed a ban on the time he would serve because he has his own re-election in the Senate to worry about in the two years after 1960.

Alcorn is quitting as party chairman because of personal and professional obligations. He will resume his law practice in Hartford, Conn., when he formally quits the GOP next weekend.

Early next week, Alcorn will name a committee of seven to call on President Eisenhower at Augusta, Ga., to get his views on a new chairman.

The national committee announced today Republican state chairmen of 12 Southern states including Kentucky, will meet in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. This weekend to discuss party rebuilding plans and the Southern Republican position regarding a 1960 party platform.

2 Fishermen Drown, Third Is Missing

WELLFLEET, Mass. (AP) — Two men drowned, a third was missing, and four other fishermen swam ashore safely through 20-foot waves early today after the Boston fishing vessel Paul Mino went aground on a sandbar during a heavy rainstorm.

The bodies of the cook, Charles Plantz, 25, and crewman Joseph Panto, both of Boston, were recovered and taken to a funeral home. Missing was the skipper of the 83 foot craft, Angelo Marino, 42, of Everett.

Marino was returning from his second trip since buying the vessel.

The accident occurred at 1 a. m. on the ocean side of Cape Cod.

The survivors were listed as Michael J. Ciarametaro, 42; Frank Ciarametaro, 28, the relations; and John Norris, 39, all of Gloucester; and James Clements, 43, of Somerville.

Clements was suffering from shock. The others were reported in good condition.

Norris said all the men donned life jackets after the vessel grounded and began taking on water. He added it was raining hard at the time and the wind was blowing about 35 miles an hour.

The craft sank lower as dawn broke, and the seven men decided to try to swim ashore.

Hours later, after the storm subsided, the Paul Mino still was fast in the sandbar. She did not sink.

West Appears to Be Toughening Berlin Policy

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council concluded its debate on the Berlin crisis today with one foreign minister after another calling for stern defiance of Soviet efforts to drive the West out of the divided city.

The Western powers were reported to have stiffened their policy line for negotiations with the Soviet Union beginning at Geneva May 11 on the Berlin dispute and problems of German unification and European security.

The 15-nation Council in its second day of its 10th anniversary conference, there, also developed support for proposals to the Soviet Union that machinery be created for direct negotiations between Communist East Germany and West Germany over unification problems.

Italian Foreign Minister Giuseppe Pellini said this could be done in a non-governmental all-German committee.

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano is understood to have said that his government would be prepared to improve some kind of low-level talks with East German representatives on problems of arranging free elections throughout Germany on condition that the talks be ordered by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

The United States, meanwhile, pledged anew the full use of its nuclear, missile and bomber striking force in defense of Western Europe and North America if military action ever became necessary.

Acting Secretary of State Christian H. Harker told the 15-nation Foreign Ministers' Council today Thursday that U.S. power today is greater than it has ever been. He declared that this country was now making faster progress in the development of missiles than is the Soviet Union.

"I pledge also full willingness to use our strength in the common defense if need be."

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano was scheduled to lead off today's debate on the Berlin crisis and the development of Western policy regarding it. The debate opens Thursday afternoon after President Eisenhower's morning address in which he declared that NATO must be prepared to carry on for years in a world of continued "tension and bickering" between the free nations and the Soviets.

The Western Big Three are seeking support from the whole NATO Council on the general policy lines which they have so far developed for negotiations with the Soviet Union at a foreign ministers' meeting beginning in Geneva May 11 on the problems of Germany and the specific crisis over Berlin.

Britain has been reported as favoring a softer approach to the Geneva negotiations than the United States and France. West Germany is known to advocate a hardboiled strategy, reserving any concessions until a late stage and avoiding any evidence of willingness to pay a price to get the U.S.S.R. to ease up on Berlin.

The organization set its membership fee at $10 with a monthly fee of a smaller amount and will hold a monthly meeting.

A parade, scheduled with some 50 cars, will be held Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 p. m. The parade will travel the usual route, forming in front of the Hope Clinic on Second Street, travel west to the First National Bank, north to the depot, west to Barlow Hotel, south to Citizens National Bank, east to the corner of Second and Main and out south Main Street past the First Baptist Church.

All local automobile dealers are cooperating to bring outstanding new and used car buys to the public during the next two weeks.

Pasture Spray Available to Farmers

Hempstead County Soil Conservation District has purchased a Pasture Spray Machine to be rented to farmers for enough to replace the machine by the time the machine is worn out.

George F. Brown of the Soil Conservation Service and Bud Witter of Reason Hill Company, will demonstrate this machine Monday, April 6, at 1:30 p. m. on the J. O. Luck farm just north of the Air Port.

Use of 2-4D spray to control weeds in pasture and allow spreading of grasses will make more efficient use of land and fertilizer. All farmers interested are invited to attend this demonstration.

Hempstead County Soil Conservation District also has a sprig planting machine to plant Coastal Bermuda grass sprigs.

The Supervisors will rent this machine to any farmer who is interested in sodding some Coastal Bermuda. The rent will be $1.00 per acre. The Supervisors hope to get Coastal Bermuda grass started in the county and at the same time get enough money to replace the machine when it is worn out.

If you are interested in Coastal Bermuda grass pasture call or contact George F. Brown of the Soil Conservation Service.

Ballot Check to Start Next Week

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A check of ballots will begin next week in the disputed election of Traffic Judge Robert W. Laster to the Little Rock School Board.

Circuit Judge J. Mitchell Cockrell said yesterday he would order the ballot boxes in the Dec. 6 election to be opened.

About 400 votes are under contest in a suit filed by Mrs. Charles W. Stephens, who contended she should be given the school board post instead of Laster. She said the contested votes were cast illegally.

Cockrell said the ballots would be removed by number only, so that no one would know how any voter marked his ballot.

Control of Atlantic Is Silent Fight

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The gray wastes of the Atlantic today cloak a silent, never-ending struggle for leadership in naval power.

Adm. Jerauld (Jerry) Wright, top sea dog for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, has a new worry—reports that the Soviet Union is developing a submarine that can launch a guided missile with an atomic warhead.

"They can convert a number of their existing submarines to that purpose," he said grimly. "The defense of North America from the threat of attack by guided missile submarines is occupying a good deal of our attention."

This and a multitude of other problems in the day-to-day race for supremacy at sea are under constant study by 140 NATO officers at Wright's headquarters at Norfolk, Va. He is proud of the fact it is the first and only Allied military headquarters ever established on U.S. soil.

The tall, sparely built 60-year-old admiral wears two hats.

As American naval commander in the Atlantic, he guards the eastern approaches to North and South American continents from the North Pole to the South Pole.

As NATO's Atlantic commander, his ships and men from eight Allied nations patrol millions of square miles between the West Indies and the North Pole, all the vital sea lines that link Europe and North America.

"It isn't an easy thing to bring naval forces of different nations into a coordinated task force," he said, "but we feel we have done it. They get along well, and they work together as a team."

Three-fourths of Russia's 450 submarines are concentrated in European waters, he pointed out. "There they are in position to try to sever Europe from America and extend the Iron Curtain to the very shoreline of the United States and Canada."

"That is their goal. Our task is to prevent them."

Wright, son of an Army lieutenant general, at 19 was one of the youngest men ever to be graduated from the Naval Academy. He served as naval aide to Presidents Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover, played a hero's role in a num-

Heart Massage Saves Life of Airman

LONDON (AP)—The U.S. Air Force told today how a doctor in a remote base hospital in South Russia saved an airman's life by opening his chest in an impromptu operation and massaging his heart.

The airman is Master Sergeant Burt Jones, son of Robert L.

Jones, Box 62, Branch, Ark. The physicians in Capt. Ellis L. Rolett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel M. Rolett, 42 Greenridge Ave., White Plains, N.Y.

The operation took place March 11. The Air Force released the story today and said Jones, though still in the hospital, is expected to make a complete recovery in a few weeks.

Another patient heard Jones thrashing around in his sleep and called for help.

Dr. Rolett ran to the ward and quickly decided Jones was suffering from ventricular fibrillation, a condition in the heart muscle which prevents it from beating normally.

Estimating that Jones would be dead in three minutes unless his blood circulation could be restored, Dr. Rolett whipped a scalpel out of his pocket, opened the chest wall and began massaging the heart.

Capl. Winifred A. Rowley, a nurse, helped by placing her lips to those of the unconscious sergeant and forcing air in and out of his body. She is the daughter of Mrs. Harrell Rowley, Waterbury, Conn.

The massage and artificial respiration continued for half an hour until other doctors arrived with a machine known as a defibrillator. Such machines deliver electric shocks to the heart muscle to stimulate it back into action.

An hour after the emergency operation, Jones was breathing and his heart was beating without assistance.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A 200-pound Texan was held today in the slaying of a 17-year-old Nebraska girl who had left home to lead her own life.

Police said Larry L. Vance, 20, of Victoria, Tex., admitted killing Dorella (Corky) Boyer in her one-room apartment Tuesday.

He beat her with a flat iron, and when she kept screaming he tightened the cord around her neck, police said Vance told them.

Miss Boyer, a county spelling champion at Omaha, Neb., came to Los Angeles two months ago.

Her father, Jack Boyer, said she left home because he revoked permission for her to attend a high school dance, if his action was punishment for her idling downtown.

3,000 Converted by Billy Graham

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—Three thousand persons surged forward to make decisions for Christ Friday at the close of an hour-long sermon by American evangelist Billy Graham.

He opened his crusade at the Auckland football ground before an audience officials estimated at 50,000.

His father, Jack Boyer, said she left home because he revoked permission for her to attend a high school dance, if his action was punishment for her idling downtown.

Graham Calls for World Prayer

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham at five here from Australia tonight called for a world prayer for the world's peace.

"I am certain that if Christians in China, Russia, the United States, Europe, and around the world united in prayer and put the emphasis on spiritual things, we could avert war," Graham said.

"We don't have anything in common racially or politically. One common denominator we do have is spiritual."

About 3,000 people greeted Graham when he drove into the city from the airport at midnight. He began a six-day campaign Friday.

Graham said his wife plans to travel from the United States to join him during his campaign in Sydney, Australia, which begins in April.

They will take a two-week holiday at Broadbeach, Australia. He said the illness which has bothered his left eye is much better and that his general health is greatly improved.

Teachers Return to Work in Indiana

GARY, Ind. (AP) — Striking teachers returned to the seven public school schools today, but doubt about the resumption of three school board members in the two-day strike.

Supt. Carl J. Schur reported that 1,450 teachers and 5,000 pupils after the two-day strike. About 24 teachers crossed the picket lines.

But Schur said he will ask the board to wait at least a week before acting on the resignations of three of its five members—the development which prompted the striking teachers to return.

Schur also said he wants the pay of the 135 strikers docked for their two days on the picket line. Thomas Dill, president of the American Federation of Teachers, Local 662, said: "We went back on the assumption that, with a new board, we would be able to negotiate. We have to wait and see what happens."

On Saturday, 208 members of the Hope-Band will be attending the district festival in Stamps. Tom Barabotto, band director, Mrs. Roy Allison, Mrs. Weaver Collins, Mrs. David Davis Jr., Mrs. Buck Rogers and Mrs. Ray Allen will accompany the group.

Mrs. Kenneth Powell and sons have returned to their home in Tucson, Ariz. after spending the past few weeks with Mrs. E. P. O'Neal.

Husband Hits High Spots as Wife Waits and Weeps

Dear Dorothy Dix:

Is it a wife's business when her husband goes on Saturday night? My husband wants to go every Saturday night. He asks me to go along, and sometimes I do. But since I work all week I have housework to do over the weekend. So I just say, "Oh, go by yourself. I'm willing for him to go to the club or bar, but want him to come home when they close. However, the hours go by and I start worrying and crying until he comes home about 5 a. m. He says he loves me, but how can he, and hurt me like this? This is his only fault, or is it me? Am I in the wrong?" —Thalia.

Dear Thalia: Use every house-keeping shortcut in the book, but get out with your husband. You spend enough time worrying and crying, use it in keeping hubby company. It's a wife's business to know where a husband goes on Saturday night and to be there herself. Otherwise, you can't expect him to resist for long the temptations offered to a lone wolf.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a bride of three months, trying very hard to get along with my in-laws. Last night, my father-in-law asked how fast I could type in 10 to 20 words a minute. I think I'm pretty good. When I told him, he said, "Um, uh, I told about a man who can do 200 words per minute. This man of course, is a champion who goes around the world giving exhibitions. I don't think my father-in-law was very tactful. Do you?" —Lisa.

Dear Lisa: Good humor is the best music.

most important quality to maintain in getting along with in-laws. Did your father-in-law's comment bring on a good lot of sulks or did you give pleasant answers? Your typing speed is relatively unimportant in the way you handle people is vital. If you let a hint of bragging creep into your answer, father-in-law probably thought he'd cut you back to size. He's pleasant with your husband's people — and everyone else — and no one will care how he has lost you a typewriter.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm in a tough spot. My son is in Germany. His girl has stopped writing and he has asked me several times if she's going out with other boys. She is, but I don't know. I should tell him. —Dorothy.

Dear Dorothy: Tell him, I'm sure your son is too much of a man to want protection against unpleasant truths.

Send your problem to Dorothy Dix. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address her care of this newspaper.

A Carefree Ride Turns Into Nightmare

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A carefree holiday turned into a near nightmare Thursday night for a business man who was mistaken for one of the FBI's most wanted fugitives.

It wasn't too bleak, it all said, said Thomas Pennell, of Wichita Falls, Tex., as he left the police headquarters. A female manhunt had led to his arrest.

Police believed he was Frank Lawrence Spragg, 38, the flying bank robber who has been on the FBI's most wanted list since Sept. 10, 1933.

Pennell, 38, was arrested after his four-passenger plane, which matched the description of one in which Spragg has been hooping about the country, crashed near by.

Alone for Spragg's plane had been put out in neighboring Mississippi and crashed in the day at Chicago and New Orleans.

Police began even more certain Spragg was in the area when the plane's description did not arrive at a hospital for which he had started.

It just changed my mind, Pennell explained later.

He and his pilot, Annie Lynn Hamilton of Columbia, S.C., left the crash scene with S. S. and Mrs. Paul D. Pearson, who offered to take them in their car to the Little Rock Air Force Base hospital.

On the way, Pennell and Hamilton decided they were not in much trouble and would drive into Little Rock.

They were on their way when police, armed with shotguns, stopped them.

Warned that Spragg would be armed and dangerous, police officers took no chances and ignored Pennell's protest until FBI agents assured police their prisoner was not Spragg.

Hamilton said the plane of her husband out of gas or developed engine trouble and he crash-landed in the most spot he could find.

St. Francis Basin Project to Start

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP) — Plans of the Army Engineers call for having construction underway by mid-July on the Grassy Lake drainage channel in the St. Francis basin in Arkansas.

Engineers said yesterday they hope to begin construction about 60 days after the opening of the May 12. The target date for completion is 630 days after work begins.

The Grassy Lake project calls for a five-mile channel of the St. Francis River channel between Padon and Wayne. Once completed, the new channel will carry runoff water from the Grassy Lake drainage area.

Moneymen Out to Perk Up Film Society

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Fifty moneymen are out to put some life in the Los Angeles-Hollywood social world, and they're spending a million dollars to do it.

Saturday night will mark the preview of the Cave Des Roys, a new pleasure spot in the heart of Lachenega's restaurant row. But it's different from the other stylish eateries on the boulevard. This one is a private club for 4,000 prominent of the movie and business world.

The accent is not on food, but on fun.

"This will be a fun place," explained C. E. Erickson, local cafe owner and managing director of Cave Des Roys. "Los Angeles sure needs something like this. It is the dearest town for its size in the country. People just don't go out and have fun here."

Erickson gave me a preview of the preview and it does indeed look like a fun place. Sort of a rich man's Disneyland.

It's styled in French 18th century and patterned after the Cave du Bois, which several of the founders visited in Beirut, Lebanon. Architect Serge Sassouli of Beirut was commissioned to design the two-story building. Much of the wood, including four heroic size medieval figures, was carved in Lebanon.

Among the features: suits of armor valued at $5,000 apiece. A priceless balustrade from Maximilian's palace in Mexico. A $50,000 French tapestry. Leather wallpaper from the Rothschild chateau in Vienna. A bar backed with 4,000 champagne bottle bottoms (French, of course).

How did this all come about? A group of millionaires like Conrad Hilton, Ed Pauley, Justin Dart, Jack Wrather and Jules Stein agreed there was a need for a place where the local elite could meet for good fellowship. Fifty founders kicked in a few grand apiece to start the project rolling.

Among the Hollywood names who made the team: Desi Arnaz, Anthony Quinn, Paul Newman, Tony Curtis, Fred MacMurray, Danny Thomas.

Testified Woman Learned to Shoot

By IRWIN J. MILLER
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—A pawnshop owner testified today he took Mrs. Minnie B. (Connie) Nicholas on a practice shooting trip with the pearl handled pistol she used later in the killing of wealthy drug executive Forrest Teel.

William Gano said Mrs. Nicholas bought the .25 caliber French revolver July 14, 17 days before Teel was slain in his parked Cadillac after visiting an attractive secretary 14 years younger than the defendant.

Deputy Prosecutor Hudson Hagerty carefully drew from Gano the testimony that it requires a separate pull of the trigger to fire each shot from the pistol Mrs. Nicholas bought.

Gano said he fired a couple of shots into a sandbank on the practice trip and then Mrs. Nicholas loaded and fired the pistol under his direction.

The pawnshop owner's testimony was part of the state's attempt to prove Mrs. Nicholas planned Teel's death well in advance.

U. S. Jury Gets Vote Inspection Job

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A U. S. Grand Jury committee was given the task yesterday of examining ballots in the disputed election of Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark).

Ballots of the Fifth Congressional District race are under investigation to determine if any federal election laws were violated in Alford's write-in victory over veteran congressman Brooks Hays.

Carroll Tibbault, jury foreman, said the committee was free to meet at its own convenience and that the personnel "could be changed from time to time" so that all the work would not fall to a few members.

The jury undertook the investigation at the request of the Justice Department.

KILLER AMONG US

© 1958 by Robert Martin
By Robert Martin

I wished I could have entered the plant openly, by the lighted gate, so that anyone could see me who cared to see I had planned to the hole in the fence, from the inside and wait there. The person I expected would come that way, and not through the gate. He certainly would not want to be seen on the premises, not this night. He would enter by the hole in the fence, see what I was up to, and then do what was necessary. And I would have been waiting for him.

I had set a trap, but Logan Masters had ruined it by ordering the guard not to admit me. The trap was still there, but I was now the bait.

He was there, somewhere, maybe crouching by a boxcar, because he would know by now that I had not entered by the gate. And he knew that I had found the hole in the fence or maybe I'd figured it all wrong.

I had the 38 in my right hand and the flash in my left. I clicked on the flash and swung the beam along the line of boxcars. I was beyond fear now — I just wanted to get it over with. The light shone into the open doors of the cars. They seemed empty, but the light didn't penetrate the far ends. I swiveled the light from the cars to the fence, danced the beam along the fence, not caring any more I was numb and maybe a little crazy. I yelled into the wind and night, "Come on, that's all, I know you're there! Show yourself."

And above the wind there came a wicked metallic cough and something tugged at my left side, faintly, just above my belt, and there was a small prick of pain, not bad at all. I turned off the light and held it limply against my leg, feeling a spreading warmth beneath my shirt above my left hip. I leaned against the

Governor Signs
tained in prepared statements issued by his office, Faubus himself was out of the city, having left yesterday after signing the bond election and blood-labeling bills.

He approved the measures amid a mild controversy over whether he had authority to do so.

Some Capitol quarters contended the deadline had passed for gubernatorial action on bills passed by the recent Legislature, and all the unsigned measures had automatically become law.

"It doesn't matter now," Faubus said after signing the bills. "The bills are law either way. I still think I had until Saturday to decide on them."

The blood-labeling bill carried an emergency clause which made it law right away.

Of the blood-labeling bill, Faubus declared:

"There was a great demand by the public for the bill... a lot of people were afraid of contamination from Negro blood... I mean from disease."

The governor said that one reason he signed the bill was because of the possibility that sickle-cell anemia, a hereditary ailment occurring usually in Negroes, could him damaging a wheel, deliberately Brandon followed the watchman to the laboratory and hit him from behind with a hammer. Then he put the body in the kiln while the fireman was away.

"Tuesday night, Brandon told me what he'd done. He told me I was as responsible as he, because I'd paid him to damage the wheels, so that I could get the Portage account."

"That simple deal killed two men," Kree said. "What did you do when Brandon told you he'd killed Jake Stage?"

"I told him I was out of the deal, that Bennett was a professional detective hired by Buckeye, that everything was off."

be transmitted through blood transfusions to white doctors, say the doctors in a statement. The bill was introduced by Rep. N. B. Murphy of Ashley County, patterned after a Louisiana law.

Controversy over the deadline for Faubus to take action on the bill stemmed from a provision of the state Constitution which gives the governor 20 days after the end of the Legislature's session to sign or veto all bills passed at the session.

Secretary of State C. G. Hall contended the 20 days counted 24 days, which would have made the deadline Wednesday. Faubus said he believed Saturdays were not counted and he had until tomorrow.

AT&T Plans for Biggest Meeting
NEW YORK (AP) — American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the world's biggest public utility, today made plans for the biggest annual meeting in corporate history. More than 25,000 of AT&T's army of 1,600,000 shareholders have notified the company they plan to attend the 74th annual meeting, April 15.

The company moved the meeting place to the commodious Kingsbridge Armory in the Bronx. The old meeting rooms at 50 Varick St. were strained to capacity by more than 2,500 in 1957.

Up for ratification by shareholders this year is a directors' recommendation to split the stock 3-for-1 and boost the dividend.

Box lunches are planned for the stockholders.

SEATO Nations in Secret Talks

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — Military advisers of the eight SEATO nations held secret discussions today on how to keep up defense against Communist aggression in Southeast Asia.

The meeting continues through Saturday as a preliminary to the fifth conference of ministers next week of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Adm. Harry D. Felt, leader of the U.S. military delegation, warned at the open meeting, which began the conference, that some circles would "pull the free peoples into attacking their arms and relaxing in an atmosphere of so-called peaceful coexistence."

The SEATO nations include the United States, Britain, France, Pakistan, the Philippines, Thailand, Australia and New Zealand.

Deadline for Signing Bills Is Disputed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — It was unclear at the Capitol today whether the deadline had passed for Gov. Orval E. Faubus to take action on bills passed by the recent session of the Legislature.

Secretary of State C. G. Hall said it had, but William J. Smith, the governor's legislative secretary, said it hadn't.

Hall said the deadline was last midnight. Smith said it will be Saturday midnight.

At stake are six or seven bills. If Faubus wants to veto them, he has intended to sign them. It doesn't matter if the deadline did pass because they become law automatically without his signature.

In the group of bills which he had not acted on are the 21 million dollar highway bond issue bill and a measure to require blood transfusions to be labeled with the race of the donor.

While debate over the deadline continued at the Capitol, Faubus was in east Arkansas on a hunting trip.

Smith said he talked by telephone with the governor and Faubus said he was assuming he had until Saturday to act on the bills.

Confusion over the deadline arose because of the wording of the state Constitution, which says the governor has 20 days after the end of the Legislature's session to act on bills.

The governor's office assumed that this 20-day period did not count Sundays, which would make the deadline Saturday.

But Hall, after checking the Constitution, said he believed Sundays should be counted and that would have made the deadline last midnight.

Before he did his research, Hall said that in his more than 20 years in office the 20-day period had not counted Sundays.

Smith said that should Faubus decide to veto any of the bills he had acted on by Wednesday, the action would be questionable in court.

Earlier in the day, the secretary of state's office received a veto from the governor's office on a $22,000 appropriation for the Civil Air Patrol.

Faubus said in his veto message that the state didn't have enough money to take care of all requests. He suggested that the CAP work out something with the Air National Guard to tide it over until the state's financial condition improves.

Iran has artificial underground canals to carry water for irrigation. The reason for underground water is that agriculture is that, in hot temperature countries, the system preserves water from wastage and evaporation.

The Cliff Palace and Square Tower on which unknown tribes of Indians sought refuge 2,000 or perhaps 10,000 years ago, protected first against outside enemies by the inaccessible crags of the plateau's outer walls, and then by the cliff dwellings which they had hewed out for themselves along canyons in the interior of the valley.

Vegetation and animals — all kinds of food — came easy for the Mesa Verde Indians, and so for a thousand years or more they developed and held a civilization far superior to that on the semi-arid flats 2,000 feet below.

Mesa Verde is blessed with more rainfall than the semi-arid plain below, a paradox that requires explaining, because normally the higher a country is the less moisture is available for plant and animal life. Mesa Verde slopes down from 8,572 feet at the north end to 6,500 at the south — and this 2,000-foot difference in elevation is sufficient to precipitate additional rain from passing clouds. And so Mesa Verde was good to the Indians who found it and lived there for thousands of years.

They prospered, that is, until disaster struck in the form of a great drought. Archeologists fix the drought as occurring between 1276 and 1298. Those 22 terrible years destroyed the paradise that was Mesa Verde.

Where these drought-stricken people went, and what eventually happened to them, our generation doesn't know, although the scientists are still on the story's trail.

This afternoon Rogers and I and the five newsboys — John Whitten, Jimmy McGuire, Danny Hatfield, Leon Prince and Edward O'Steen — have been acting out the role of a second generation of cliff dwellers. We have been going down worn staircases with a thousand steps leading to the dwellings cut into the face of canyons, and we have climbed vertical ladders and sninned down ropes. It has all been venturesome and fascinating even for me, with two cameras and Although not as large as the Cliff Palace this colony has 70 rooms and 7 subterranean ceremonial chambers. Of course today all the ruins are roofless, but originally they were covered with adobe tops — and the Indians carried on most of their activities outdoors, generally upon these flat roofs. The numerous small dark rooms were where the women and children slept. The men, it appears, preferred their own clubrooms, or kivas.

four lenses on my person while descending into depths no adult has any business risking. But we have the pictures, in both color and black-and-white, of one of the great dramas of America's youth before the white men ever knew her.

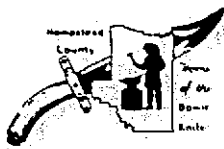

Tomorrow (Thursday, Aug. 23) we close the Mesa Verde chapter and start home via Gallup, Albuquerque, Amarillo and Texarkana. Regards from all of us.

picture ends our story. It shows a rock castle jutting up from the northern New Mexico desert, on U. S. Highway 666, en route from Mesa Verde to Gallup, N. M. At Gallup the expedition turned east on U. S. 66 and came home through Albuquerque, Amarillo and Texarkana. This is a black-and-white copy of a Kodachrome original.

"E" for Effort

Hope Star's original plan was to issue this Pictorial Tabloid without help from any other printing house — but this proved impossible. We discovered that presses in our size city can't handle the great inking load required by solid picture pages. Therefore we went to Wallace Hurley's fine offset plant—Hurley Printing Co., Camden—for the press work.

Hope Star's Newsboy Tour of the Golden West--August 17-29, 1958

Editor's Log of 2-Weeks Safari in Golden West

Aug. 20, 1958

By ALEX. H. WASHBURN
Editor & Publisher

MT. RUSHMORE, S. D. — Here, 24 miles out of Rapid City, S. D., which we reached Tuesday night on the third day of the Hope Star's newsboy safari, we are looking at the giant faces of four great Americans sculptured out of a blank white wall on one of the Black Hills.

The first report on the progress of the two men and five boys in the expedition has been delayed for several reasons, one of them being Old Man Trouble.

The five boys, John Whitten, Jimmy McGuire, Danny Hatfield, Leon Prince and Edward O'Steen, the Star's circulation manager C. M. (Pod) Rogers, Jr., and A. H. Washburn, editor and publisher, left Hope in the publisher's loaded station-wagon at 6 o'clock Sunday morning, Aug. 17.

We left in the rain, a deluge that lasted all the way to Mt. Ida. Nearing Fort Smith we picked up the inevitable Sunday traffic and battled it all the way into Springdale, where we had Sunday dinner at Roy Ritter's famous A-Q Chicken House. Sunday night the boys unloaded the 12x12 foot tent from the rack on top of the wagon and bedded down in the state park at Carthage, Mo., while Rogers and I slept in the wagon. On that first traffic-plagued day we had made only 397 miles of the 5,000 miles ahead of us.

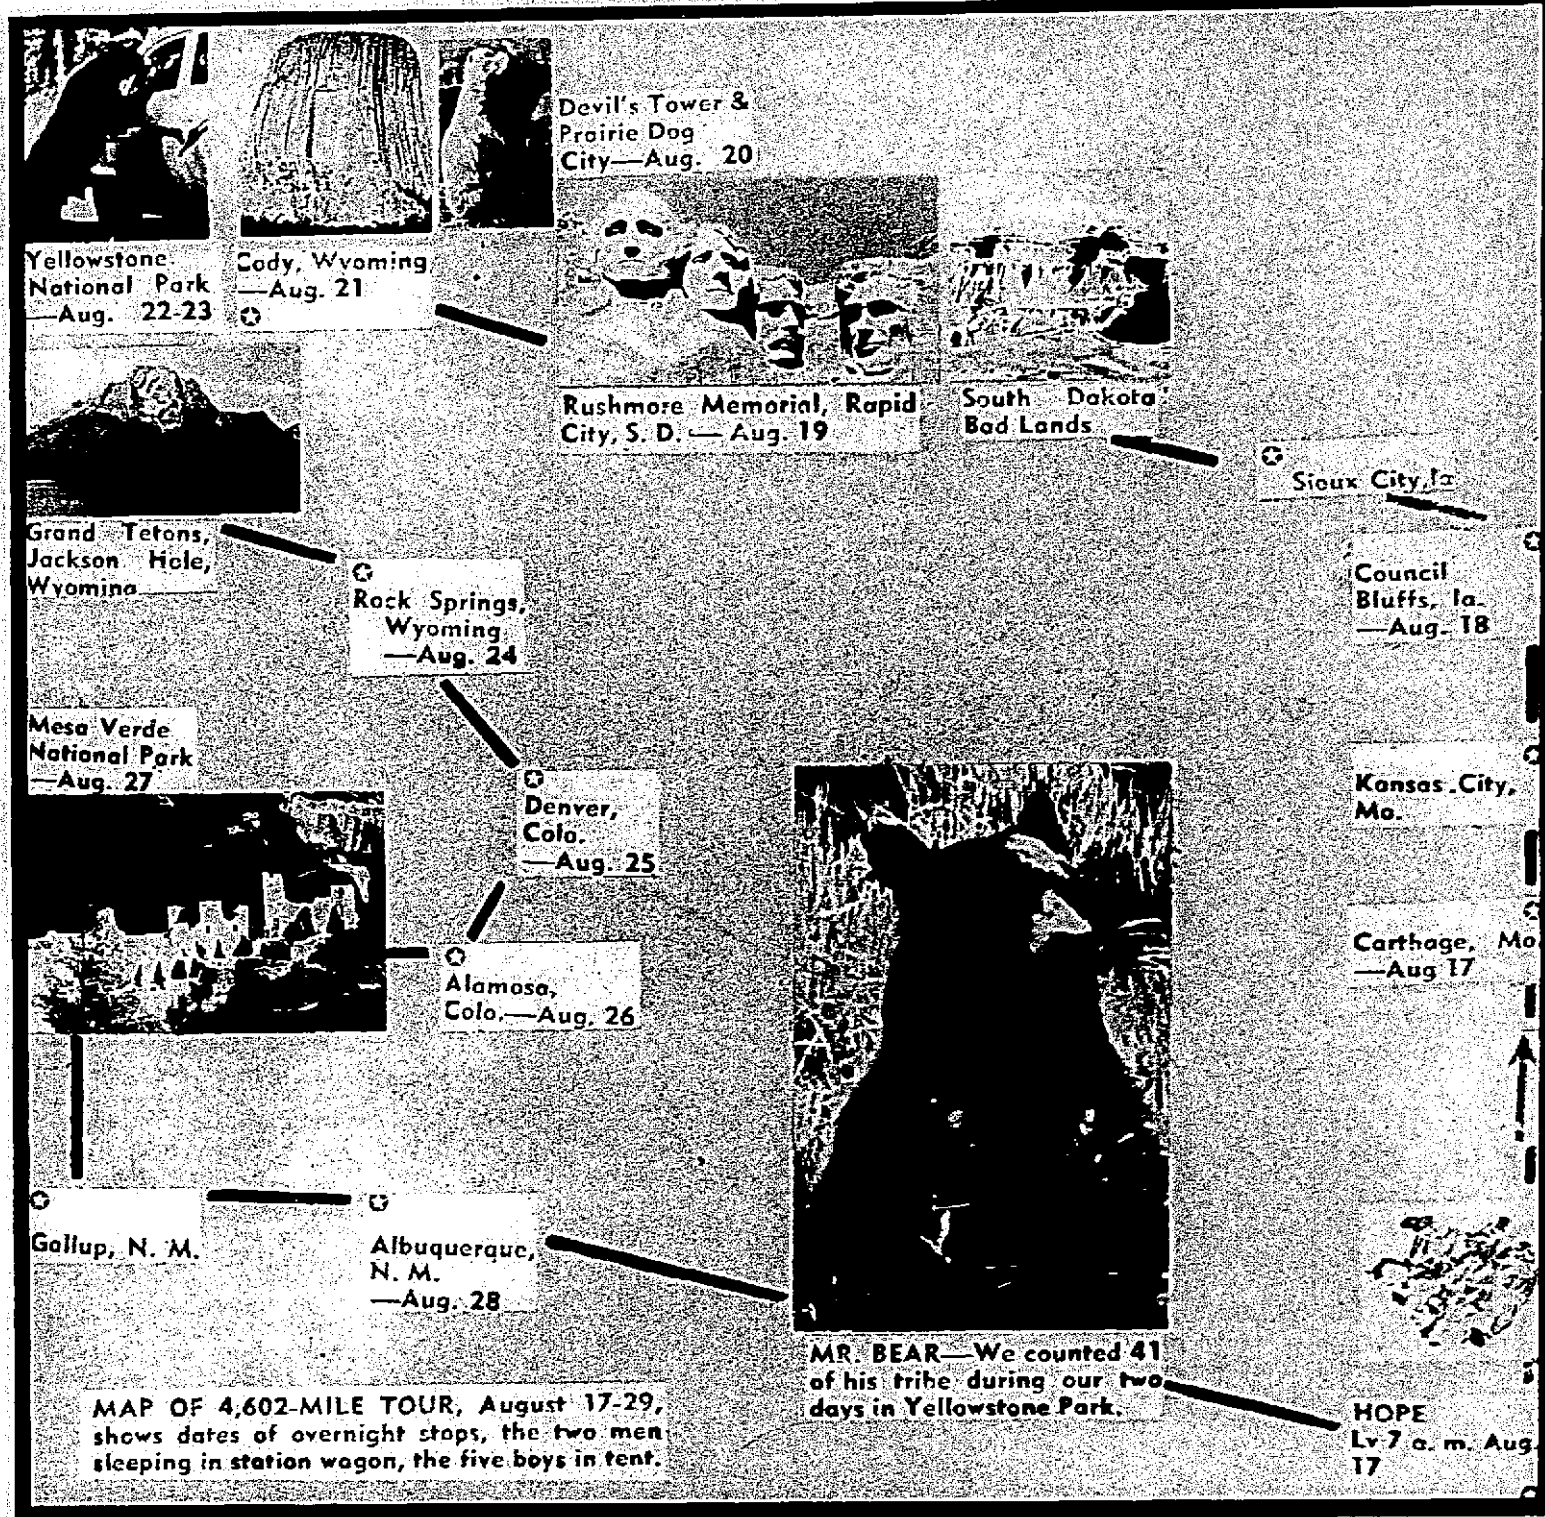

Monday was our real trouble day — from Carthage, Mo., to Council Bluff, Iowa, a run of only 396 miles. Instead of traffic blocks we had car trouble. A rock had damaged the fuel line near the gasoline tank, at Joplin, Mo., late Sunday. We discovered the leak at Carthage, and on Monday headed for Kansas City to have a new fuel line installed.

We were down only two hours in Kansas City, but had scarcely gotten on the road again, heading toward St. Joseph, Mo.,

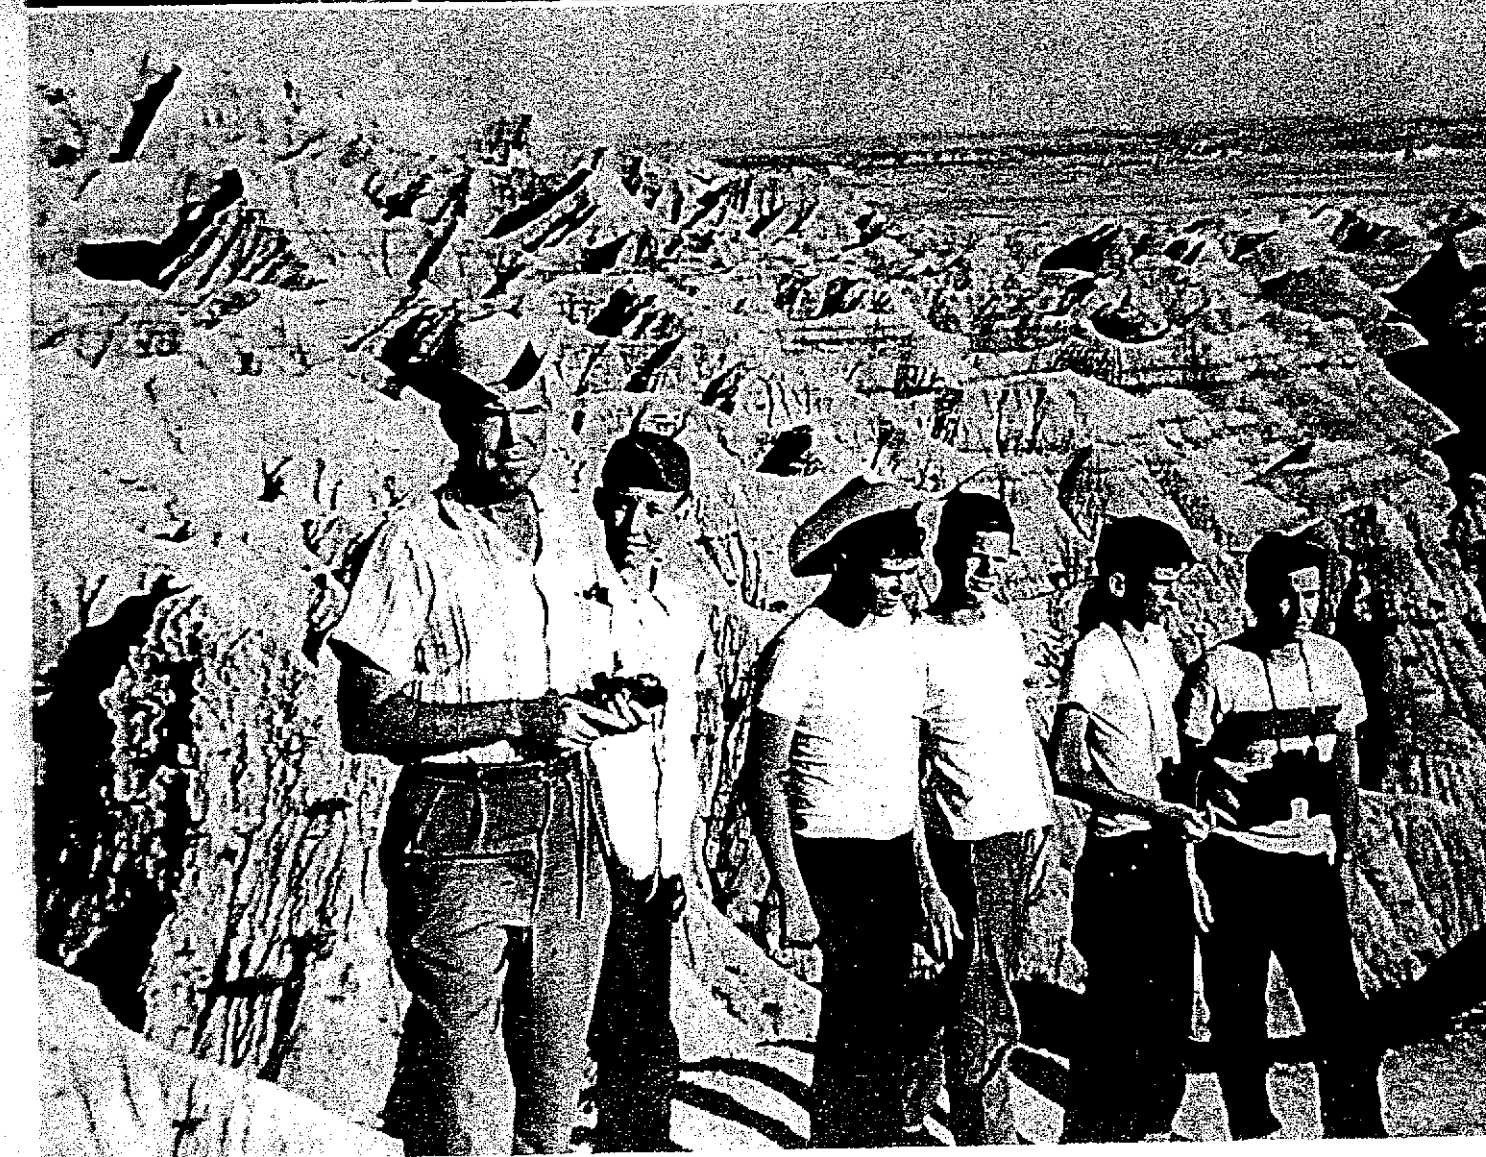

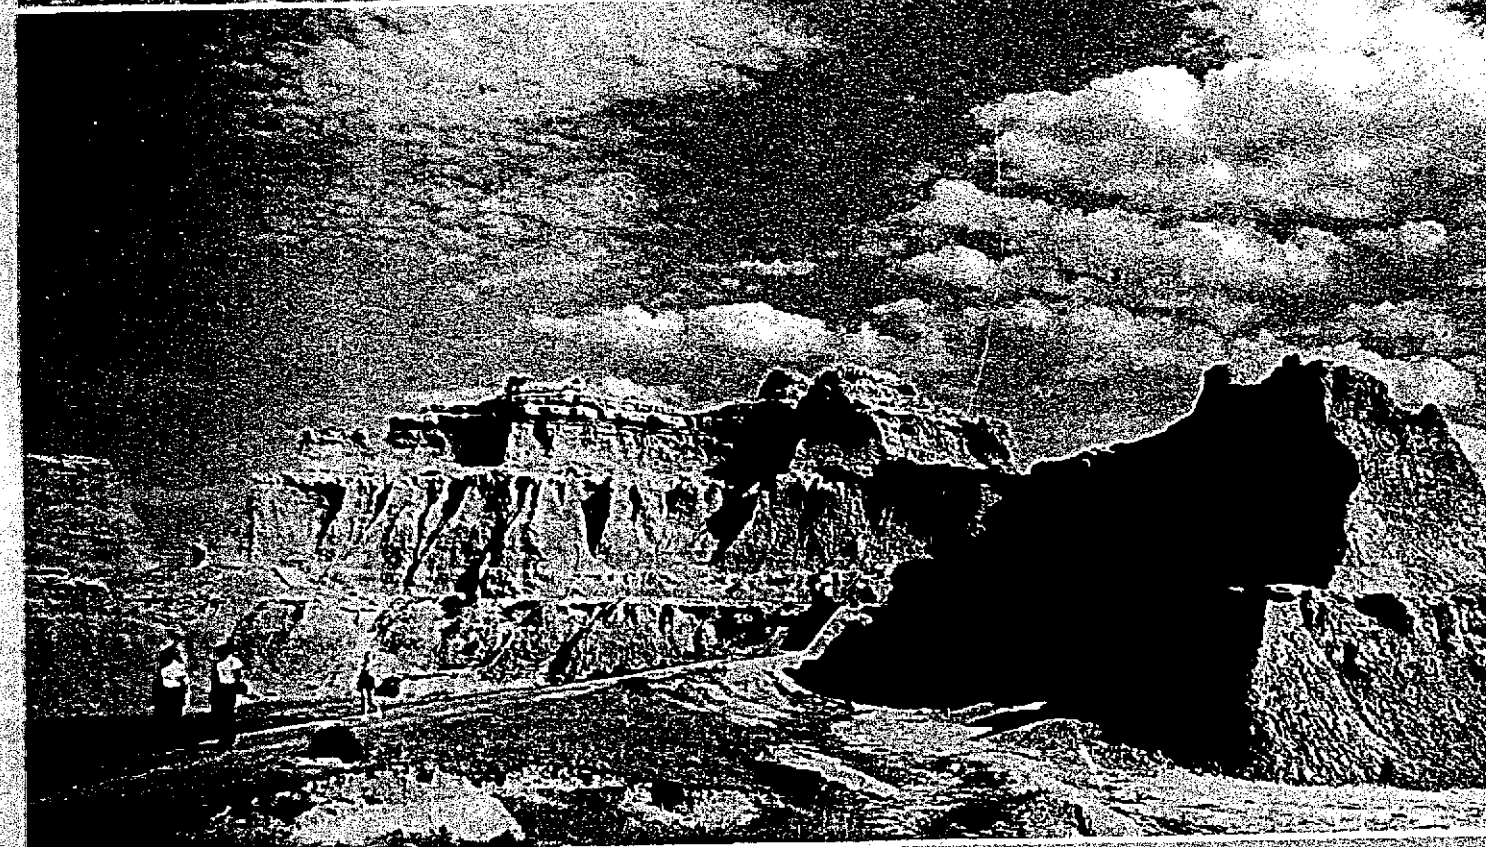

FIRST SCENIC STOP —

time the line was fixed permanently.

We rolled into Council Bluffs, Iowa, and the congenial city police permitted us to camp in a park Monday night. Across the highway was a permanent amusement park. Our five-man newsboy team vanished instantly. The rides that they rode were: Roller-coaster, one-armed bullet with a rolling action — and the bumper cars. Rogers and I looked on regretfully at the bumper cars while the boys persistently cornered some Iowa cutie-pie in short shorts. We finally dragged them back to the station-wagon and tent and we men went to sleep at long last with their yackety-yak still sounding off in the tent.

Tuesday was our banner day. We got up at 4 a. m.—among other reasons because Rogers and Washburn's air-mattress failed and we found ourselves lying on the bare, hard floor of the station-wagon. So we got the boys up, too, and put the show on the road.

Tuesday (last night) we drove from Council Bluffs, Iowa, to Rapid City, S. D., 596 miles—and a total distance of 1,398 miles from home.

With three full days on the road Rogers and I decided all of us needed a break from the tent and station-wagon routine. So I rented a two-room tourist space with shower and all seven of us piled in, the boys using one of the beds and making do with air-mattresses on the floor. It was noisy but nice—and today we are seven new men.

This morning we climbed from Rapid City's 3,200 foot elevation to the 5,000 foot level where the observation post fronts the face of the Rushmore Memorial 6,000 feet high on one of the Black Hills.

I am writing this on Rogers'

This tabloid has nothing to offer but pictures of the Golden West and the story of the five local boys and two men who traveled 4,602 miles in two weeks last August.

The production was proposed to our advertisers on that basis, plus our guarantee that Hope Star would turn out the finest edition possible with the facilities of a newspaper our size.

We thank our advertisers for the confidence they placed in this publishing house by going along with our most unusual venture. They, like we, trust this piece of good printing will be cherished for years to come.

wife's portable perched on the tailgate of the wagon, while under me is one of the fine folding stools manufactured by Southwest Wood Products Co. of Hope. The bright Dakota sunshine is pouring down on Rogers and me while the park guards look for four of our five newsboys. At last reports they were trying to get on top of one of the Black Hills that was higher than the Rushmore Memorial.

Correction: They did get there. But here they come — and we are off for Yellowstone National Park.

Rushmore--the Faces of U.S. History

MIDDLE — WIDE-ANGLE LENS — This picture, taken from the same position on the Rushmore Lodge veranda as the one at the top of the page, shows the magnificent sweep of Carl Zeiss' newest miniature lens — the Biogon 21mm., with 90-degree angle of view — which the editor obtained only the day before the tour began.

— such as the reason behind our spending part of this morning shopping in Cody.

The reason — air mattresses. All nine of them gave out. This morning we replaced them with sleeping bags. The five newsboys had been sleeping on the faulty air jobs in our 12x12-foot tent, while C. M. (Pod) Rogers Jr., circulation manager, and I slept on a pair in the station wagon.

On the last stop before this, Wednesday night at Devil's Tower, Wyoming, camp elevation 4,000 feet, Rogers' mattress went flat in the middle of the night and the two of us toughed out the bitter cold (estimated temperature 38 degrees) wrapped in our blankets. And when the air pump gave out, as we were setting up camp here in Cody last night (Thursday) Rogers and I put the camp in charge of Jimmy McGuire, oldest of the newsboys, and the two of us sought refuge in a tourist camp. So this morning we threw away all the air mattresses and started from scratch with sleeping bags for everybody — as we are now going into Yellowstone National Park where it will be strictly camping out for several days.

Our run Thursday was 384 miles from the last overnight stop at Devil's Tower, one of the great natural mysteries of our United States. Devil's Tower is a giant finger of volcanic rock that thrusts straight up 800 feet from the 4,000-foot-high plateau. As the sunlight wheels around it the great rock changes color, from gray to pink and once for a fraction of a second it was a vivid green as its lichen coat caught the sunlight at a certain angle. We took many pictures of course, both in black and white and Kodachrome.

But the prize exhibit at Devil's Tower for all of us — adults and boys alike — was the biggest prairie dog town you ever saw. The dogs — they look to be one-quarter squirrel, one-quarter ground-hog and one-half rabbit — were spread over a 20-acre field close to the Park Ranger station at the Devil's Tower Park entrance. They came up to the roadway and ate bread-crumbs out of our hands — at least the friendlier ones whose dens were nearest the highway. These were the fattest dogs, of course, leading Pod Rogers to remark that, just as with humans, some prairie-dog real estate is more valuable than another — the roadway dens obviously selling at a premium because of their proximity to three square meals a day.

We must have made a hundred pictures of the dogs and their curious humpbacked den entrances.

Going back a bit with our story: Eastern Wyoming, which we entered shortly after leaving the Rushmore Memorial in South Dakota, is a lush land of great meadows and grain fields, now in full harvest, and eye-stretching herds of beef cattle. Then we climbed the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains and went over Powder River Pass at 9,666 feet and suddenly all was changed.

The descent on the western slope of the Big Horn Mountains is through the magnificent Ten Sleep Canyon (with another odd name, Fast Asleep Creek, along our course). Here the earth was literally torn apart, and we wound down a vertical 3,000 feet along the wall between canyon shoulders that were a mile wide.

We were in the Wyoming Bad run toward Mesa Verde National Park. The short day's run developed 272 miles and we stopped Tuesday night at Alamosa, Colo., in the city park.

Our total mileage through tonight is 3,426 from Hope, and will run close to 5,000 by the time we return home this weekend, presumably Saturday night.

Today's run was full of spectacular sights. Between Alamosa and the park entrance we crossed Wolf Creek Pass at 10,850 feet — our highest elevation of the entire trip.

Then, this afternoon we made the steep and winding ascent up the rock gate of the park entrance, rising from the plain at 7,000 feet to 8,572.

On our run down from Denver we had cancelled a projected trip up Pike's Peak because the cog-railway wanted $5 a head, which would have totalled $35 for our 7-man party; and the alternative of driving up would have meant unloading the station wagon of everything but its human load, and then fighting a rough road to the 14,110 foot summit.

However, the magic of Mesa Verde has much more than made up for the Pike's Peak disappointment.

Here is the fabled high plateau valley that Allen Ladd made "Shane," perhaps the most beautiful film in motion picture history.

From Jackson Hole we came over the high south Wyoming plateau, still at 7,000 feet, to spend the night at Rock Springs. Today we resumed the endless journey across the semi-arid plateau, lunched at Laramie, where my aunt, Miss Elizabeth Henry of Riverside, Calif., once was university chief librarian — and came into Denver in late afternoon to spend the night.

In the morning, Tuesday, we will head south for Pueblo, Colo. and below there will turn westward for Mesa Verde National Park and a tour of the world's largest Indian cliff dwellings.

Afterward we will drop down to Gallup, N.M., see the painted desert — and then head for home by way of Albuquerque and Amarillo and Lake Texhoma.

MESA VERDE NATIONAL PARK, Colo. — "Mesa Verde" means "green tableland" — and so it is, a green and hospitable plateau nearly 2,000 feet above the semi-arid fields of southwestern Colorado.

Here our newsboy safari camped tonight at 8,572 feet. This is Wednesday evening as I write this on the tail-gate of our station wagon while the five newsboys put up their tent alongside. Monday night we spent in Denver, on one of our rare occasions to use a tourist court. In Denver, Pod Rogers, circulation manager was to tour the Denver mint, reputedly the government's largest, where practically all of our coined money is cast — but his plan fell through because it developed that a day's advance reservation is required, by telephone or letter.

Tuesday we drove south from Denver through Colorado Springs, Pueblo, and Walsenburg, Colo., where we turned west for the

Devil's Tower and Prairie Dog City

Lands, running into desert and sage brush — a vast stretch of ruined earth. It nearly equalled the South Dakota Bad Lands which we saw on our approach to Rushmore Memorial Tuesday.

Here in Cody, Wyoming, elevation 5,000 feet, and 1,971 miles from home, we find the town-folks still use silver dollars, of which we have accumulated a quantity in making change. On the silver dollar it says, "In God we trust" — to which we knights of the road say reverently, "Amen."

OLD FAITHFUL. Yellowstone National Park — The Yellowstone bears have extra fine coats this year so you can look for a hard winter.

Our newsboys know about bears for we have seen 31 of them since entering this famous park yesterday afternoon (Friday).

And Pod Rogers and I know about winter, for at this 8,000 foot elevation we had a low of 39 degrees as we slept in the station wagon last night. But what helped the situation — both for us and the boys in the tent adjoining the wagon — were the new sleeping bags we purchased yesterday morning before leaving Cody, Wyoming.

Here in the Old Faithful reservation, oldest and most famous tourist point in Yellowstone, we are 2,131 miles from home — and this is the turning point of our newsboys safari. We'll probably spend Sunday in Yellowstone and then strike out for Jackson Hole, in the Grand Tetons, heading for Denver and the road home. This will include a tour of the Indian cliff dwellings in Mesa Verde National Park, southwestern Colorado. From there we will probably drop down to Gallup, N. M. and head home through Albuquerque and Amarillo.

But let's get back to the Yellowstone bears. Signs warn you (1) Look out for the Moocher Bear, and (2) Don't feed him. Nevertheless the Yellowstone black and brown bears show a strong resemblance to big dogs, and tourists defy the warning signs. Our newsboys were ecstatic when the first bear we sighted on entering the park promptly sat down and looked as wistful as a hungry dog. But when we slowed our car down Mr. Bear promptly arose and shuffled ingratiatingly toward us. We had no food then, but at the first stop loaded up with loaves of bread.

Of course the cameras were out and very busy. The appearance

All the tour photographs were made by The Editor, processed in Hope Star's darkroom.

The film — The German Adox KB-14, world's finest grain film.

The developer — The German Tetenal Neofin Red.

The Editor made 230 black-and-white shots on the tour, and produced 200 8x10 glossy prints, editing them down to the 37 actually used in this Pictorial Tabloid.

of a bear was usually signaled far up the road by a jam of cars. Cautious folks like our party compromised with the park rangers' warning by tossing the bread to the bears from a safe distance — and, again like dogs the bears caught the food in mid-air.

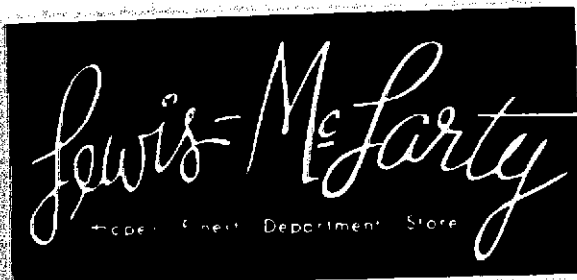

This afternoon on a 166 mile swing through Yellowstone we saw a big stag elk grazing beside the highway utterly oblivious of a hundred tourists snapping pictures of him at close range. The big stag must have had 15 points.

TOP — THE DEVIL'S TOWER — Like a gigantic tree stump turned to stone, The Devil's Tower rises 865 feet above the plateau near Sundance, Wyo. Unbelievably, a team of six men scaled its perpendicular wall the very day Hope Star's safari arrived at this landmark.

MIDDLE — FAT DOG — Along the roadway the dogs of Prairie Dog City — which is in Devil's Tower Park — are the fattest, because they get the most handouts from tourists. This one is taking bread-crumbs from Circulation Manager Rogers. Photo is black-and-white copy of a Kadachrome original.

BOTTOM — DOG FIGHT! — The glint-eyed buckaroo at the right is rushing in for a fight, which broke out an instant after the camera shutter snapped. Note the cross-lighting of an early morning sun on the battler's fur coat.

Immediately after our arrival yesterday afternoon we saw Old Faithful put on one of its hourly performances. The exact interval between bursts of the old geyser I believe is 63 minutes. There are taller geysers than Old Faithful right here in Yellowstone, but they have their drawbacks. For instance, we spent nearly an hour in front of the Lone Star geyser which operates sporadically, and saw nothing. Sometimes it fires every 3½ hours sometimes every 20 minutes. Our patience wasn't good enough yesterday but we may try again.

Today we toured the boiling springs and the so-called paint-pots, where the boiling water and mud show flashes of color.

The elevation of Yellowstone Park ranges from 7,000 to 8,000 feet, and at the highest level is magnificent Yellowstone Lake, which appears to rival our larger Arkansas lakes in size. Despite the brisk weather the lake was crowded with fishing boats and cabin cruisers. And the lake had other occupants too — thousands of wild ducks and geese, just about as tame as the land animals.

Our last spectacle of this afternoon's tour was the great canyon of the Yellowstone River, terminating in the 308-foot Yellowstone Falls.

On to Denver!

Aug. 25, 1958

DENVER, Colo. — Our newsboy safari left Yellowstone National Park just before noon Sunday, stopped Sunday night at Rock Springs, Wyoming, and came on to Denver for the stay tonight (Monday).

Yellowstone gave us an exciting send-off. During Saturday night C. M. (Pod) Rogers Jr.,

Star circulation manager, and I were sleeping in the station wagon when Pod heard a suspicious sound between the wagon and the tent, where our five newsboys were: John Whitten, Jimmy McGuire, Danny Hatfield, Edward O'Steen and Leon Prince.

Pod got up to investigate, but I refused to stir, confident in the security of a hundred house-trailers jammed into Old Faithful Reservation and literally thousands of people in the nearby lodges and cabins.

Then Pod yelled, "Bear!" — and the boys piling out of their tent ran smack into a full-grown black bear. But the bear, more frightened than the boys, left off sniffing for food and took to his heels.

The newsboys came back to their tent panting and boasted to the two of us, "We chased that bear right up the mountain." Pod waved off the boast and opined, "It's a good thing that bear didn't look back just once or there would have been some new holes in the company tent."

DUNRAVEN PASS
EL. 8859

So we left Yellowstone Sunday noon and drove leisurely southward along the magnificent Grand Teton mountains to Jackson Hole for a late luncheon. It was in this isolated and beautiful
